

Agriculture Marketing

A Farmer supplies many products. A farmer is identified by farmer id. The system also stores Farmer name, Farmer phone number and address. A farmer address is composed of house number1 and city. There may be multiple Phone number of farmer. A product is identified by product id. Product name, price, production date, expire date are also stored. Product is taken by Store. Store is identified by store id. The system also stores store name, store location and store phone number. There may be multiple Phone number of store. A Store sells to customer. One Store may sell his product to many customer, customer buys product from many store. Customer is identified by Customer id. The system also stores Customer_phone number and Customer_name. Visitor can come and enquire farmer. Visitor is identified by visitor id. visitor name and email also stored. There may be multiple email of visitor. Now draw an ER diagram according to the mentioned scenario.